tries to glorify his small Spartan band at Washington. Much like Spartans they have acted! They began to vote for Marshall, and quit thatscattered about over creation. At last they fixed nency, a violent opponent of the Nebraska bill when it passed, who was looked upon when he came to Washington as a suitable candidate for position he stood when he began to be voted for. Some of the warmest Republicans of the House voted for him, believing him to be all right with them. He came out reluctantly at last against a Spartan. His Northern associates loathe him much can be made of a little. as a traitor; elected on one side and now lending himself to another.

The Know-Nothings resemble the Spartans in nothing; the latter chose their own position, the former take the position the Democracy made for them; the latter did not weaken and disparage their own position, the former do, and show evident symptoms of desertion. They pretend to stand by the Nebraska bill, but they denounce it as a position badly taken, and one they never would have made for themselves. Shabby Sparthans at ess same Know-Nothings! First scattering their force without a general, then taking one who had been mixed up and the enemy, and commis-. . speed by them, and all the while hesitating about "their position; even pretending that they don't exactly understand if. . . .

Indeed, these begut Spartans have deserted their orthogonation, which is undying hostility to the Ecro-mid foreigners. Instead of all standing shoulder to shoulder on this platform, the South Americans separate from their sworn brethren North to occupy a pos.tion that is none of theirs, in opposition to the rest of the faithful sworn bretherhood. Such conduct is unbecoming Spartaus. It is a gross perversion of terms to call men gnilty of such waving and shuffling Spartans. One had as well call Know-Nothings Americans.

STEAMBOAT ACCIDENTS .- According to a table in the New York Herald, there were, during this year, 27 steamboat accidents in the United States, whereby 176 persons were killed and 107 wounded. Last year there were 48 accidents, and 587 persons killed and 225 wounded. This large decrease is, no doubt, owing to the good effect of the new steamboat law passed by Congress.

THE PYNE AND HARRISON OPERA TROUPE .-The theatre was very well filled last night with a fashionable and apparently delighted audience. We did not hear the first two acts, but were very well pleased with the performances of the troupe The acting was rather commonplace, but the music was much better.

The orchestra did much better than was to have been expected on a first performance. There are ome excellent voices in the troupe, and some not Donna of the troupe, possesses a very pleasing voice and style—the former is rather mellow and penetrating than full-of vory considerable com- over so beautiful, it is a disgusting and appulling pass, but not very powerfull. Miss Pyne, the contralto, sings very lively, and ommands her voice well, but has not much power. Her chest-voice is not so good as her middle-voice, nor that quite as pure as her head-voice. She cannot be considered a pure contralto, but rather inclined to the soprano. Her style is good; and she makes a pleasing impression upon the audience.

Mr. Stretton, the basso, has a good voice, of considerable power and depth, but not quite so full as make his audience feel it. Mr. Horneastle sings as the oducators of a young generation of immortals. It was said in praise of a woman in ancient times. Domman manneit: lanam feeit. Let such be baritone voice. With Mr. Harrison's voice we were not so well pleased. It is pretty fair in tone, but rather deficient in volume and correctness; it is much better suited to the parlor soirce than the opera house. He sang slightly flat throughout the piece, or so much of it as we heard; but this de feet was most observable in his solo, "Oh, whisper what thou feelest." In this he sang as much as a quarter of a tone flat. His head-voice lacks clear ness in its highest scale, except when he runs into the falsetto. In a second performance we may see it is reported that the following dialogue took more to admire than we did last night; and if we do, shall take great pleasure in stating so. To-night the troupe will perform Wallace's Opera of Maritana-Mr. Harrison as Don Cossar de Bezan, and Miss Louisa Pyne as Maritana. The play for to-morrow night is the Daughter of the Regiment. the Regiment.

We have already noticed that the Board has ordered the preparation of some testimonial of thanks for his ficient conduct in their services. efficient conduct in their service.

At the sa me time that Mr. Done's resignation was accepted, the President of the company nominated as his successor Dr. Wm. S. Woodside, for a long time connected with its affairs in positions of honor and responsibility. For several years, from 1814 to 1849, we believe, Dr. Woodside was the solo head of the transportation affairs, and om that period to this has acted as the paymaster general to the standing army of nearly five thous-and men, rank and file, to be settled, with each month. Dr. Woodside has been esteemed as an stelligent and diligent officer. He is said to be stematic and prompt, and a rigid adhoront to liscipline.

Mr. Win. Proscott Smith still retains his position as the Assistant Master of Transportation, and Mr. Louis M. Colo continues as Auditor and Gen eral Ticket Agent, both enjoying the reputation of faithful and competent officers. An excension of the organization is said to be in contemplation, by which a General Freight Officer will be introduced, similar to the division of labor as arranged upon other leading transportation lines.

Dr. Woodside assumes his office at a very important period in the affairs of the company. At his time, as we are told, the utmost abilities of the road are taxed by the enormous quantity of freight offering from the great west. The average coading this month at Wheeling for through freight per day, is one hundred cars with eight hundred tens of produce, besides some fifteen t cars of live stock. In order to facilitate the Prosident has lately directed that the use o the Kingwood Tunnel, (the formerly dangerous parts of which have now been finally and firmly arched and secured), shall be resumed for the passage of the freight trains.

In a brief raviow of the Sumner tragedy, the Hartford Courant holds the following lan-very excellent. Miss Louisa Pyne, the Prima one of the abominations of modern society. Even a desire for promiseuous admiration is wrong in the wife. The love of one and his approval, should be all that she should desire. Let her be sight, to see her decorating that beauty for the public gaze—to see her seeking the attention of all the senseless fops around her, and rejoicing in the sensation of disgust, when a married lady attempts to ensuare and entrap young men by a profuse display of her charms, or an unlicensed outlay of her smiles. Such charms and such smiles are pathsome to the Indifferent beholder-the taril of the serpent is over them all."

"Such wives should know, If they do not know it already, that their influence over the virtue, and the prudence of young men is as deleterious, as if they were the most abandoned of women. They lead them to believe there is no purity in the sex— that married virtue is but an outside show—and that delicacy and propriety are but masks or out-side dresses. The effect of their character is that side dresses. The effect of their character is that of a silent corruption, sapping the foundation of honor, and probity and truth. Let them beware. Let them reserve their charms and the fascination we should like it. There is a great deal of pure whom they belong; and if they must be admired, melody in it, and with a fair opportunity he wil

WASHINGTON, December 31—r. M.

The President's Message was read in the Senate.
He states that he has delayed until this time his annexed communication to the two houses, in consequence of the non-organization of the Rouse, but his convictions of duty will not permit him to lelay any longer the giving to Congress information of the state of the Union and the state of the state of the state of the Union and the state of the state of the Union and the state of the state of the state of the Union and the state of the state of the Union and the state of but his convictions of duty will not permit him to delay any longer the giving to Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommending such measures as he judges necessary or expedient. He commences by giving a history of Central American affairs in particular. The President refers to the recent troubles in Kansas, and says that her people must be protected in the exercise of their rights without interference on the part of the people of any other State. He commends the subject to the early attention of Congress, eulogises popular sovoreignty, gives a history of the formation of the Union, and expatiates on State rights, with particular reference to
